Description of the activity implemented: We decided to organize a workshop with activists from »Second home«, researchers from the Slovenia Migration Institute, DRPD and other NGOs, professors and international students from Vienna University involved in European master in Urban studies. The main goal was to look for interdisciplinary innovative practices and ideas from around the globe. Students from Spain, Ghana, Netherlands, South Korea, Austria, Belgium, Egipt, Colombia, Uruguay, India, Nepal, Colombia etc... shared with us their knowledge and experiences from their home countries and from their own migratory paths and experiences with Europes "hospitality". This knowledge production was very important and useful for all of us. We finally came across a set of interesting conclusions and possible actions.
Outcomes: For us an important result of our event is knowledge production and different practices in the field of inclusion of undocumented migrants, asylum seekers and refugees from around the globe on the city level (Novo Mesto, Ljubljana, Vienna...), which will enable the future work in many areas. It will help researchers, activists and NGOs to be able to address certain challenges that were either not identified yet or were identified and created challenges and obstacles.
